

List of Recognised Health Professions

The following health professions are recognised by IBLCE as being professions that meet the regulations and standards for practice established by a governmental authority at the national, state or provincial level. The titles and credentials held by individuals educated in these recognised health professions vary from country to country. This list attempts to reflect titles that are used in a broad range of countries.

If you have questions about this list, please contact the IBLCE office that serves your country of residence by using the form found on the Contact IBLCE page of the IBLCE website.
